HARRISBURG, Dec. 5.—An unemployment insurance law, assuring some 2,500,000 workers in Pennsylvania wages paid by industry instead of a government dole during days without work, was written into the state's statute books today.

After five days of deliberations, marked toward the closing hours with open dissension within the Democratic ranks, the newly-elected, $100-a-day legislators meeting in special session passed finally the bill and adjourned at 2:45 o'clock this morning.

It brought Pennsylvania in line with the last of 10 phases of the Federal Social Security Law and assured the state of $22,500,000 in benefits that otherwise might have been lost were the session not called.

Governor Signs Bill
Gov. George H. Earle, who found a belligerent faction in the senate that forced an amended civil service provision, signed the bill following adjournment.

Also passed and signed by the governor were three appropriation bills incident with the session, 19th in the commonwealth's history. They were a $50,000 appropriation to finance the temporary administrative machinery for the program, a $177,900 appropriation for special session expenses, and a $10,000 appropriation for session printing.

The civil service provision was amended considerably by the senate (Continued On Page Two)

PA NEW OBSERVES
Clarence Weatherby, Youngstown road resident, shot a seven-point deer in the Nashua district on Thursday afternoon.

The latest hunter to report getting a deer is Harry Brown, of 1931 Hamilton street, who bagged a 155 pounder in Emporium, Pa. The deer was a seven pointer.

Marvin Dinsmore, R. D. 5, has returned triumphant from a successful hunting trip to Cameron county where he was successful in bagging a 5-point buck.

Harry Strausbaugh, his two sons Tom and Eddie and Charles McCracken have just returned from Forest county where they hunted deer. The only member of the party to get a deer was Eddie, the star center on the New Castle High floor team. It weighed 150 pounds and had 7 points. The party reports that there was about 20 inches of snow in Forest county and that they were lucky to get back to the main highway.

Champion King In Crisis

JOSIAH CLEMENT WEDGWOOD WINSTON CHURCHILL

In Josiah Clement Wedgwood, left, Laborite colonel, and Winston Churchill, right, anti-Baldwin Conservative leader, King Edward has two staunch champions who are defending the king's right to marry whom-ever he chooses. Both seek to avoid abdication by the king. Should the king dismiss Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin and his cabinet, it was believed Churchill would be summoned by the king to form a new one. Churchill is a less restrained leader than Baldwin, however, and his cabinet might not last long.

Spanish Loyalists Suffer Heavy Loss

MADRID, Dec. 5.—In the most horrible carnage of any single day in the Spanish civil war, loyalist forces suffered more than 700 casualties in the battle for Pozuelo De Alarcón, key to the Escorial highway north-west of Madrid, rebel broadcasts today asserted.

While smoke still rose from the terrible visitation of 31 insurgent bombing craft over the capital, loyalist government statements claimed recapture of Pozuelo, six miles from Madrid, and nearby Humera.

A communique at rebel Talavera, however, said the counter-attack was rolled back with great bloodshed.

After a four-day fight in which the insurgents gained control of the road, vital because it cuts off the loyalists in the Guadarrama mountains and protects the insurgent left flank, more than 5,000 leftists were thrown into the fray to regain Pozuelo.

(International News Service)
VATICAN CITY, Dec. 5.—Personally confirming his illness for the first time, Pope Pius XI today apologized to his cardinals for being unable to attend the closing ceremonies of his week's spiritual retreat in the Sistine chapel.

An appeal was immediately sent out to all churches to hold special masses and prayers for the Pope's speedy recovery. Cardinal Pacelli, the papal secretary of state, when pressed for more information about the Pope's health insisted, however, that it was "nothing grave."

Local Ailment

The pontiff told the cardinals he was suffering from a "local ailment." This, it was learned, is partial paralysis of the muscles in his left leg, caused by heavy deposits of uric acid in the knee and ankle joints via the blood stream.

Imparting the pontifical blessing and urging the cardinals to devote themselves to prayer, the indisposed Pope sent his message to the assembly (Continued On Page Two)

LONDON, Dec. 5.—In an exclusive statement to International News Service transmitted while she was en route to sanctuary on the Riviera, Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson announced today she is leaving entire decision regarding her future to King Edward.

It was the first declaration she has made to anyone since leaving England for French soil and, in fact, the only authorized statement she has issued at any time bearing on the romance that has rocked the world.

"Surely it must be realized," the American-born choice of King Edward for wife declared, "that in the present circumstances I need calm and rest."

"I am very tired. The French have been very kind to me, but they have been unable to keep people from following me. Since yesterday I have been followed everywhere."

"I have no immediate plans. Awaits King's Decision
"The king is the only judge."

While waiting for his decision, I am going to withdraw into silence and rest."

Mrs. Simpson's historic message, confirming her entire willingness to abide by whatever decision King Edward deems proper even though it should mean sacrifice of their plans for wedded happiness, was transmitted while she was on her way to Cannes to take up temporary residence at the Villa Lou Vieil, residence of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Livingston Rogers of New York.

At the time, King Edward was still in silent seclusion at his country estate, Fort Belvedere, still determined to marry Mrs. Simpson, but under increasing pressure from (Continued On Page Two)

(International News Service)
BUTLER, Pa., Dec. 5.—Five men arrested by state police and held in barracks here have confessed participation in the $44 holdup of the First National Bank at Shippensville Thursday, state police announced today.

They described the suspects as a youthful band of frightened amateurs and indicated they would probably be charged under federal laws at the conclusion of the investigation.

Leaders "Squeal"
State police said Kenneth Myers, 27, and Bernard Grover, 31, both of Buffalo, N. Y., whom they described as the "ring leaders," admitted participating in the holdup, which ended with Burgess R. L. ## Courses Open To King Edward

(International News Service)
LONDON, Dec. 5.—With compromise now out of the question, King Edward today faced four alternatives in his constitutional wrestle with his ministers:

- 1—Reject the advice of Premier Baldwin to abandon his marriage plans, which would mean resignation of the government then try to name some new government that would abide by the royal wishes.
- 2—Marry Mrs. Wallis Simpson and confront parliament with the "fait accompli."
- 3—Abdicate.
- 4—Give up his marriage project.

LANGLEY FIELD, Va., Dec. 5.—Lieut. A. A. Downing, famous for his deeds as a Pennsylvania state policeman, was found shot to death today in the underbrush near a C. C. camp where he was stationed as assistant to the commander.

A preliminary investigation resulted in a report that Downing, a native of Philadelphia, had apparently killed himself, according to Quartermaster Col. W. H. Calvert. He had been dead from 24 to 36 hours of a bullet wound in the head when discovered by a Negro C. C. boy. An army service rifle, the property of a friend, lay nearby. There was no note.

RESIGNATION IS OFFERED

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—The unprecedented action of John Hamilton in offering to resign as Republican national chairman, unless given a vote of confidence by the Republican national committee, today raised the issue of reorganizing completely the party which went down to the most crushing defeat in modern American political history only a month ago.

Some Republicans here viewed Hamilton's announcement as certain to provoke a contest between Governor Alfred M. Landon, titular head of the party, and the young red-haired chairman for control of the reorganization. Some support was given this view by Hamilton's announcement that he felt it "impossible for me to continue in an official capacity without an expression of confidence from the body of the committee."

LONDON, Dec. 5.—Unyielding in the face of increasing pressure from the government, church and nobles, King Edward VIII remained adamant in his determination to marry Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson today and the possibility of his abdication seemed to grow as the hours passed.

The king told Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin of his determination at Fort Belvedere again last night, and the premier in turn presumably passed this renewed defiance on to his ministers at a brief emergency cabinet session this morning.

To Baldwin, the king added that all intimations to the effect he has decided to renounce Mrs. Simpson are without foundation.

Point-Blank Opposition
This picture of the king in point-blank opposition to his premier, and fighting unflinchingly for what he believes to be his rights despite external pressure and personal nervous strain which has necessitated medical consultation, was given to International News Service by an authoritative source.

Baldwin and his colleagues remain, if not hopeful, at least firm in their intention to continue pressure on the monarch in the belief he may change his mind.

Or failing this, that in the next day or so he may end the present impasse by a formal act of abdication.

Legal Activity
Observers betting on the latter possibility saw their market strengthened by unusual legal activity in Downing street following the 40-minute cabinet session.

King's Personal Fortune Is Set At $50,000,000

(International News Service)
LONDON, Dec. 5.—Should King Edward abdicate, and parliament fail to make a special grant for him he would nevertheless have a personal estate of around $50,000,000, it was estimated today.

The $50,000,000 annual revenue from the hereditary crown lands must be turned over to parliament, which grants the king a privy purse.

Edward's personal property, however, includes Sandringham, in Norfolk, Balmoral, Scotland and many other estates, while he is believed recently to have converted some holdings, such as his Alberta cattle ranch into cash.

Old Covered Span At Edensburg Will Soon Be Dismantled

WILL HAVE SERVED JUST EIGHTY YEARS

Roof boards and overhead timbers are now being removed from the old covered bridge over the Mahoning river at Edensburg, in preparation for the removal of the bridge upon the opening of the new viaduct span on December 12.

Some of the stone blocks which formed the end abutments have been sold and were removed several weeks ago, by the purchaser.

Workmen are now engaged in placing picturesque white guard rails along the road span of the viaduct, in preparation for the opening next week. An interesting item was the fact that the present covered bridge was opened for traffic on December 12, 1856, and the new bridge will be opened on December 12, 1936, just 80 years to the day.

LEGISLATURE ENDS SPECIAL SESSION IN EARLY MORNING

Democrats, some of whom had at first attempted to rip out the entire feature and leave the question for the 1937 regular session to wrangle over.

But Governor Earle made it clear he would have none of it and with other administration leaders stood by his guns at a conference in his office during most of yesterday afternoon when a compromise with the "insurgents" was effected.

Civil Service Amendments
The civil service provision was amended in the senate to read in substance as follows:

1. Those employees on the state employment service who did not previously comply with civil service requirements were placed on par with those to be hired in the future by being forced to qualify by competitive examination. The bill at first granted this class of employees exemption.

2. The vocational and educational requirements were struck out as qualifications of employees and applicants for positions.

Previously amendments were made to protect collective bargaining rights of workers seeking better pay, and to allow compensation to strike after a three-week "penalty" waiting period.

The lower chamber concurred in all of the amendments as a matter of "routine."

Law Far From Perfect

Both Democrats and Republicans frankly admitted their belief the unemployment insurance law is far from perfect. The bill was "steam-rollered" through both chambers in an effort to reach as early adjournment, leaving the controversial matters to be ironed out at the 1937 session.

The only object in view was to enact the law before January 1, the deadline set by the federal social security statute for states to qualify for benefits. In Pennsylvania $22,500,000 were at stake.

Although it appeared possible that congress might amend the federal statute to bring Pennsylvania in line, Governor Earle called the session rather than risk the chance of being left out.

Enactment of the bill tonight set into motion one of the greatest administrative tasks in the commonwealth's history. A one per cent tax on payrolls of employers having one or more workers must be collected between now and January 31. Administration of the program will be in the Labor and Industry Department.

Unemployment Insurance Fund
Ninety per cent of that tax will be set aside in a state unemployment insurance fund by the federal government for future benefits to the unemployed which start January, 1938.

The federal statute calls for a tax on employers having eight or more employees, while the state law, because of the "uniformity" clause in the constitution, requires the tax on employers of one or more employees.

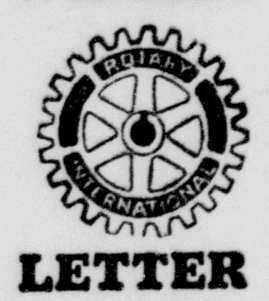

Whether or not that phase of the federal social security program falls by the wayside because of supreme court action will be no concern of Pennsylvania under the present act. If the federal act is invalidated, the state act provides that Pennsylvania's system will stand on its own feet and continue.

This was one of the most controversial provisions in the bill. Another was that of the "merit system" of rating employers. Pennsylvania chose to ignore this setup, which calls for the separate pooling of funds in certain types of industries with taxes set accordingly rather than a general funds with a uniform tax.

These two provisions undoubtedly will come under fire at the 1937 session, as well as administrative features, many of which have as yet to be practically worked out.

The program will be administered by a board of review, consisting of three persons, appointed by the governor, under the jurisdiction of the labor and industry department.

Sentence was suspended on a charge of felonious assault and battery, in which it was claimed that he had drawn a knife, but had not cut any one.

Charles Merriman, for operating a motor vehicle after his license had been revoked, was sentenced to pay a fine of $50 and costs and to undergo imprisonment in the county jail for 60 days.

Hanna Braswell, colored, assault and battery, was sentenced for three years upon the payment of costs and the hospital bill of the woman she assaulted, amounted in all to over $100.

C. K. Owens, driving while under the influence of liquor, $100 fine and costs and 30 days to jail, to be released in ten days upon payment of the fine and costs. There were some extenuating circumstances in connection with this case which were outlined by his attorney.

James Barone, neglect of an illegitimate child, sentenced to pay lying in expenses of $40, costs, and two dollars per week for support of child. Bail in the sum of $300 for faithful performance to be given.

In the case of George Bashor, charged with larceny, sentence will be passed later pending further investigation of the case.

In the cases of Alex Maxwell and Joseph Zuzov, both charged with statutory offenses, provision was made for lying in and other expenses and costs.

Pleas in the cases were prepared by District Attorney Mont L. Alley.

MRS. SIMPSON ASKS KING TO ABANDON PLAN TO MARRY HER

ters that Edward must abdicate if he marries her, Mrs. Simpson poignantly pleaded with the king to give up the idea.

She told him they must not be so selfish as to let their love endanger his position as king emperor or to imperil the future of the British empire.

There was no reason why their marriage should endanger his position as king, Edward replied, and the empire would be protected by his proposed act of succession by which their possible children would not be in line for the throne.

Baldwin "Obstinate"
King Edward called Baldwin "obstinate" but conceded that the premier was being pressed by the "old guard."

If the situation were presented to them in a fair light, Edward added, he believed the dominions would not object.

Mrs. Simpson, nevertheless repeated her fear that the king's position would be imperilled, and reiterated her belief that they should abandon the idea of marriage.

Again Edward replied that he intended to fight to the last.

He asked her to promise not to do anything rash—such as leaving him or going away—for good.

Mrs. Simpson replied that she would stick to him as long as he felt he needed her and loved her no matter what happened, whether the marriage was possible or not.

DEMANDS FAIL TO FORCE KING TO ALTER PLANS

Duchy of Lancaster, spent two hours in conference with Baldwin and Home Secretary Sir John Simon at 10 Downing street.

Sir Donald Somervell, attorney general, then was summoned to a conference at the Dominions office. Sir John Simon, acknowledged to possess the keenest legal brain in the cabinet and who has a justified reputation as an expert on constitutional law, was in conference with Baldwin almost continuously. He hurried out of 10 Downing street for lunch and then rushed right back to closet himself with the premier.

King Silent
No word to the public, gripped as never before by the crisis, has yet come from King Edward's turreted retreat, Fort Belvedere, but all indications are that the monarch has not retreated an inch in his firm determination to make Mrs. Simpson his wife.

He has rejected all pleas that he renounce her, including even one from the charming American-born matron herself, who in a final meeting with the king before she left for the Riviera urged him to forego their own dreams of wedded happiness in behalf of his throne and empire.

Correct this sentence: "When we get on top," said the partisan, "we'll insure peace by being kind to our defeated enemies."

She dodged the pursuit for a time when a sudden spurt from the auto drove her to Blois at 3:50 m. threw them off the scent, but in a few hours her progress down the Rhone resembled a fast-moving parade.

Scotland Yard Protection
In her own car, besides the chauffeur, were two Scotland Yard detectives, giving her the protection of the two most famous police organizations in Europe.

A Scotland Yard detective also accompanied her baggage, a dozen suitcases and hat boxes and two trunks, which came to Cannes by train and was taken to the Roger villa.

Mr. and Mrs. Rogers, who were guests with Mrs. Simpson aboard the King's chartered yacht, the Nahlin, on a Mediterranean cruise last summer, have a charming villa near the shore—"Lou Viei," on the Chemin De Vallauris.

Surrounded by expansive gardens and patrolled by special guards, the villa will no doubt finally afford her the seclusion she seeks until the storm over King Edward's intentions to marry her subsides in England.

Silently sweeping away from Fort Belvedere after a poignant farewell to King Edward, the world's most talked-about woman started a race by road and ship, through daylight and darkness, across two countries—a sad, strained figure like some dumas heroine—fleeing from vague doubts and fears and leaving behind the one she loves most in the world.

She took the less-frequented cross-channel route from Newhaven to Dieppe, instead of the shorter, faster ferry from Dover to Calais, and rolled through Normandy's apple orchards under a dull sky.

Skirts Paris
Widely skirting Paris, her powerful car roared late at night through Blois, 200 miles northeast of Cannes, disturbing the medieval atmosphere of that sleeping town. Fog, however, forced her back, and she took a suite at the old Hotel De France—the very room in which the Duc De Guise, pretender to the French throne, slept before his assassination four centuries ago.

In that ghostly atmosphere across the Place Victor Hugo from the ancient fortress Donjon, she restlessly tossed, fully clothed and unable to sleep for four hours.

Twice, however, she telephoned to King Edward at Fort Belvedere, once at some stopping place along the road, and again from Blois.

Smoking cigarette after cigarette, Mrs. Simpson leaned back in the plush velvet of her car, and listened to the Place Victor Hugo and the voices of men she learned were reporters.

Quickly she gave her orders, and in a few minutes, a brawny Scotland Yard detective on either side, she dashed out the door, into her car, and sped over obscure highways southward.

"Mrs. Simpson was obviously under a severe nervous strain," the hotel clerk said. "She hardly ate her supper and appeared completely exhausted."

Honor Lewis, Leader Of Trinity's Scouts

Retiring As Scoutmaster, He Is Given Medal Before Parents

Scoutmaster T. Gwyn Lewis of Troop 55 of the Trinity Episcopal church was presented a handsome medal by the Rev. Philip C. Pearson, rector of Trinity, after he publicly announced his resignation this week as the troop's scout leader before a Parents' Night throng of 50 or more in the church. Lewis has directed the troop for years.

Senior Patrol Leader Dale Clobus handled the opening exercises. Stunts and an exhibition of the field meet events featured. Medals went to Bob McClelland, Melvin Brickner, Dale Clobus and Richard McGough, field meet winners.

The annual supper of the troop will take place in Trinity church on December 17. A rifle practice will be held at the armory by the troop on Wednesday evening, December 9.

Troop 55 will present to their retiring scoutmaster's former scout troop in England a gift within a short time, reciprocating for the gift the English boys sent to Troop 55 some time ago.

Robert McClelland is succeeding Lewis as the scoutmaster.

He was in touch with Mrs. Simpson by telephone on several occasions during her dramatic automobile trip through France to the quiet and seclusion of the Cote d'Azur.

Mrs. Simpson herself telephoned Mrs. Rogers at 3 p. m. today from Moulins, France, stating she hoped to reach the villa by 11 o'clock tonight, or if not the first thing tomorrow morning.

Touching Farewell

Before she departed, Mrs. Simpson had a touching farewell meeting with the king at Fort Belvedere. In which she herself urged him to abandon the marriage plans if he thought this the best course to pursue for his own sake and that of his empire.

The king rejected this plea along with all others. King Edward himself telephoned Mrs. Rogers shortly after noon today, inquiring after the arrangements made for Mrs. Simpson's comfort.

The statement from Mrs. Simpson today was the only authoritative, authentic declaration she has made regarding her future with King Edward.

On countless occasions, attempts were made to interview her on the romance, but she has always maintained a dignified and courteous silence, declining to add fuel to the fires of gossip or make any statement which might in any way embarrass the king.

P. E. O. SISTERHOOD AT CAMPBELL HOME

Miss Frances Geddes received twenty-one members of the P. E. O. Sisterhood Friday evening, at the home of her sister, Mrs. W. L. Campbell, of Moody avenue.

Considerable business was transacted at the meeting which was in charge of Mrs. J. A. McNeill. The guest of honor was Mrs. M. S. Kelley of this city.

After the business meeting Mrs. R. F. Roberts used the assigned subject "This Way to Christmas," as a medium for an interesting review of the origin of various Christmas customs such as the singing of Christmas carols and the exchange of Christmas greeting cards. Illustrative material was used to good advantage. Group singing of carols was enjoyed with Miss Hazel L. Campbell at the piano.

The home was attractively decorated for the Christmas season. Tempting refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by her nieces, Marion and Hazel Louise Campbell, and by Mrs. Campbell.

Plans for the next meeting were completed. This will be the annual Christmas bazaar and dinner which will be held at the home of Mrs. Earl Dart on Saturday, December 19, at 6 o'clock.

During the day and evening the home was open to the family and scores of friends who called to greet the venerable couple. As the family connection is quite large, there being nine children living, with 51 grandchildren and around 15 great-grandchildren, no attempt was made to have a family dinner, but a buffet lunch was served throughout the day.

The children include Mrs. Albert Lutz, Mrs. John Stimpel, Mrs. Verna Sankey, Mrs. Claire Matthews, Mrs. Charles Caldwell, Orris, Russell, Grant and Chester McConnell. Mrs. McConnell has one sister and one brother living, Mrs. Emma Martin and John Shultz, both of whom still live at Portsmouth, O., where Mrs. McConnell resided when she was the former Jennie Shultz.

E. McConnell is 80 years of age and his wife is 74 years of age. Both are in comparatively good health and greatly enjoyed the anniversary occasion this week.

For many years Mr. McConnell was a farmer, well known throughout this community. He and his wife resided until last summer on the farm near Edinburg when they came to New Castle. They have been prominent members of the United Presbyterian church, and attended Center church sometime ago.

In addition to friends calling personally on Thursday, the McConnells received many cards and greetings in other forms bearing congratulations and best wishes for continued health and happiness.

BLOODY AVENUES OF DEATH

JUST when there was some hope of an improvement in traffic fatalities, the National Safety Council comes forward with the dire prophecy that completion of statistical totals will find 1936 at the very peak of highway disaster. It is anticipated that the final reckoning will establish the motor vehicle deaths for the year at 37,500, a considerable increase over the casualty aggregate for 1935.

Not a little disturbing is the fact that this deplorable trend comes in the face of safety crusades energetically conducted in various states under public and private auspices. It seems, indeed, that the drunken driver and the reckless motorist simply will not learn.

This is not to say, of course, that no attempts should be made to curb the loss of life which is being so wantonly recorded along the nation's network of highways. But it is to say that enforcement agencies must become increasingly determined in their campaigns of apprehension and punishment.

Idealistic kid glove methods are obviously inadequate in the face of what has every evidence of being a nationwide refusal to heed the dictates of caution and common sense.

UNSETTLED, BUT INTERESTING

Prof. William Junkin Cox of Yale had the most gallant of intentions when he told a New York conference that only six per cent of highway accidents involve women drivers. And he rose fully to the demands of chivalry by reminding women they can and should reduce auto accidents by men through subtle feminine influence, because "men have had the problem for thirty years and have done little with it."

But he should have been more amply bolstered by statistics before thus counselling figurative back-seat driving. Proportions of registered women drivers range from sixteen per cent in New York to thirty-three in New Jersey, in one recorded year. The average seems to be about twenty-five per cent. His quoted six per cent of accidents stacks up rosily thus far, though he cites no basis for his low figure.

Yet because women, although many are licensed, do only a fractional proportion of actual driving, as attested by any street-corner count, Prof. Cox has merely spurred the ancient controversy without proving anything save his gift for fair words and his zeal for road safety.

DECEMBER

Another hard winter ahead. Almost without exception, the various prophets, ranging from those who base their predictions on the thickness of the caterpillars' fur to those who rely on science, have warned us that this will be another of those winters that try men's souls.

The United States Weather Bureau, a cautious institution, refuses to predict in detail for more than thirty-six hours and will make no official forecast for more than a week. Desiring to extend its service and its value to the public, however, the bureau is now trying to set up a basis for longer looks ahead.

Last year's hard winter, followed by floods, has revived the question of big weather cycles. Have we now finished a twenty-five-year cycle of warm and dry seasons, and are we now entering twenty-five years of cold and wet ones? Bureau officials, in the seclusion of their own homes or in some other sheltered spot far from the listening multitudes, will admit that perhaps this is true. They are looking into the matter.

If the theory is sound and acceptable we must prepare for a long succession of hard winters.

AMERICANS PAY DEFAULTS

On December 15, $193,000,000 in principal and accrued interest is due as installments on a debt owed by ten defaulting nations to the United States.

Not a cent will be paid to us—except by honest Finland—and it is quite likely that there will not even be an answer to our polite reminders of these debts.

These ten nations—most of them—are too busy paying out billions for armaments and financing one another for the next war to pay any attention to the nation before whom they once grovelled for financial and man-power assistance.

Of this installment and interest due us on December 15 on an approximate debt of twelve thousand million dollars, the British quota is $86,000,000, the French quota $74,000,000 and the Italian quota $16,000,000.

On this very date, December 15, millions of Americans will be compelled, under penalty of progressive fines, to pay an installment on their federal tax.

Americans, almost to a man, will pay what is due their government.

In paying the income tax, we Americans are paying, without a doubt, in increased rates the money that the debt-levelling nations refuse to pay us.

NEW MILITARY THEORY

During the World War the United States sent to France divisions of about 250,000 men, the largest divisional organizations on the Western Front. Now the Army high command is proceeding with reorganization plans designed to remedy weaknesses revealed by World War operations and studied exhaustively during the intervening years.

New organization plans, which will be given practical tests in the field during training periods next summer, call for an infantry division of 13,000 men. There will be no brigade and no brigade commanders. It will consist of three regiments of infantry, completely motorized except for rifle companies, also a single regiment of artillery, with a strength of personnel and fire power virtually equivalent to the field artillery brigade under current Army organization tables.

One of the principal advantages of the new division, as envisioned by General Douglas MacArthur, who initiated the changes, and his successor as chief of staff, General Malin Craig, who is carrying them through to fulfillment, is the increased mobility resulting from smaller organizations.

Military authorities, both in the United States and abroad, will await with interest the results of the field training tests, which may establish the practicability of new and important military theories and represent an advance toward the perfection of the swiftly changing science of military operations.

"Hutchins wants Universities to Teach Thinking," a headline says. The idea, as we understand it, is to prevent a recurrence of the unhappy incident when a halfback ran ninety yards in the wrong direction.

Nero, In London.
The King May Say No.
The President Comes Home.
War As Soon As.
By ARTHUR BRISBANE

MARLOWE'S "face that launched a thousand ships and burned the topless towers of Ilium," has not disappeared from the earth. The face of a charming young Baltimore lady has power to upset the British empire, causing the cabinet to say to the King-Emperor, "choose between your throne and her."

NERO, FIDDLING WHILE ROME BURNED, might be called a serious statesman compared with the British cabinet, with the danger of World War blazing around it, threatening to upset the British Empire from within, over the silly issue of the King's right to marry a respectable and desirable young woman.

THE LATEST NEWS reports the King ready to defy Stanley Baldwin, the Prime Minister, and the virtuous British middle classes that would not object and have not objected in the past, to half a dozen or more royal mistresses, their illegitimate children transformed into dukes, by royal order.

ONLY YESTERDAY ENGLAND'S population and press were praising the King as a great business builder for the Empire, the faithful worker for his people.

England's present middle class ingratitude reminds you of the treatment accorded to Lloyd George after his courage, resourcefulness and energy, combined with the fighting spirit of the old Frenchman Clemenceau, had saved the British and their allies from defeat.

THE SYMPATHIES of this country are with the King, regardless of the fact that the lady in the case happens to be of American birth.

Europe and the world in general are in a dangerous condition; the British empire might be broken up, from the air, in a dozen places. Somebody ought to read to Prime Minister Baldwin the saying about "changing horses while crossing a stream."

BUT, THOSE TENDER WORDS about "all of love and the world (empire) well lost," may not interest young King Edward, who possesses will power and has been brought up in an atmosphere not calculated to develop submissive humility. To abdicate would be to "quit," and the King has done nothing to would justify his being made "a quitter."

A job is what you make it; the King may decide to prove that a British monarch is not necessarily a (Continued On Page Five)

THE WIND BLOWS CLEAN

All night the wind beat wildly around the house. It rattled the windows and banged the trees and made a great-to-do. We looked out once and saw a thousand thousand stars up there, bright and hard, enormous. No rain was on its way, but it was just that rough and boisterous wind going past.

And when we woke in the morning, leaves were everywhere. In corners, on the porch, against the fence. All the dead and half-dead leaves that had been hanging on the trees, reluctant to go, delaying their farewell to the summer, were stripped from the boughs—and the trees were straight and lean and ready for the winter.

They weren't harmed at all, but the leaves were gone, gone from that old apple tree, gone from the pear, gone from the cherry, gone from the vine. Blown clean.

HAND-PAINTED CHINA DAYS

In the days of long ago every lady had to know
How to paint a bunch of pansies
On each saucer, cup and plate.

And a butter dish where grew no pink rosebud wouldn't do,
Since the fashion called for china most peculiarly ornate.

I wonder if at all those lost splendours you recall
When the stuff they called "hand-painted" was the very smartest thing.

When the plainest gravy boat had carnations at its throat,
And every dish of spinach wore the violets of spring.

Plates and cups were edged with gold, just as thick as they could hold,
And we stared at purple pansies as we bent to cool our soup;

Then the crocus used to flash through the steaming corned beef hash,
And beneath the mashed potatoes bloomed a lovely floral group.

But today nobody spills salt from fields of daffodils,
And the ham and eggs no longer rest on beds of asphodel.

Where the greasy pork chops lie, not one blossom greets the eye.

Those "hand-painted" days have vanished, and I think it's just as well.

The World At A Glance

Baldwin On Unsecure Ground.
King Seeks More Liberal Counsel.
Roosevelt Reception Vociferous.

By LESLIE EICHEL

Central Press Columnist

PRIME MINISTER STANLEY BALDWIN of Great Britain is not on such firm ground as has seemed in the United States.

The prime minister has steered the Conservatives into the backwaters of the most reactionary Toryism in England.

The cry against King Edward VIII over the possibility of his marriage to Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson has not been led by an indignant public, which has been kept in ignorance, but of a coterie of reactionaries headed by Lord Derby. This coterie was close to the throne during the reign of the late King George V. When Edward came to the throne, he made known that the Tory advisers no longer were welcome in the royal circle. Instead, young men of more liberal inclinations became the king's contacts with the outside world, if he needed any contacts.

Then, when the king went to the depressed areas and remarked volubly over the terrible plight of Britain's unemployed, the Tory anger knew no bounds.

Constitutionally, a king must concur in the policies of the elected government—but a popular monarch can create a demand for a government more representative of the people.

Some years ago George Bernard Shaw wrote a play, which many said was a silly play, in which a British monarch, taking a stand against the government, saved democracy for Britain. That does not seem so silly at the moment—if ever the British public catches on to what is occurring beneath the surface.

MRS. SIMPSON NOT MENTIONED

Letters from English folk make no mention of Mrs. Simpson and the king, for outright discussion of the facts has been kept out of English newspapers and out of the radio. Gossip has been substituted for straightforward news. Even the "strong" admonitory editorials, advising the king to watch his step, have been round-about—laboriously so.

A LETTER FROM ENGLAND

Here is a letter from an Englishman to his American cousin—a letter which makes interesting reading, but which makes no mention of Mrs. Simpson:

"Things are slowly improving here in England. This latest move to re-arm is making a great deal of work for many industries. Thus unemployment is gradually falling.

I don't know how you find it in America, but the large majority of the unemployed here are not skilled men at all, but the laboring class, navies and such. Most really trained men are being absorbed in the new works undertaken recently.

"The building trade is good. Thousands of houses are just being 'piled up.' Many soon will want re-building, I fear. Far too much jerry work is being put into them—unseasoned timber and poor materials generally. Still, it will make lots of work and that means more cash in circulation.

"I was interested in your recent presidential election. I suppose you are satisfied with the result. I hope it all will make for improvement in everything, especially world peace. I do wish our leaders would not commit us to so many treaties, etc. If only we could just mind our own business more and work together with America, I do think that would keep things balanced. It would be a rash nation that would dare to interfere with us then. As it is, we seem promised to help just any country, may be in some manner that has no bearing on us at all. To my mind we have far too many politicians and not enough statesmen."

Whether in Britain or elsewhere, that has been the cry for ages.

FOR PEACE!

World commentators still are remarking over the demonstration to President Roosevelt in Buenos Aires. It probably never has been equaled in the memory of present generations.

Hundreds of thousands shouted, "Long live Roosevelt! Long live peace!"

Even if the president should go to the most "militaristic" of nations, the cry still would be for peace.

The peoples of the world, in spite of their warlike governments, their dictators and nationalistic propaganda, are as one for peace. By high emotionalism, by the instillation of fear, they can be flung like demons into war against one another. But beneath it all there is the despairing cry for peace.

All they need is a symbol of peace to raise this hope in a mighty surge to the surface—and President Roosevelt is that symbol and that hope.

It is no wonder that the war lords of the world pause to take heed of that Latin cry for peace, surging upwards as to heaven in the clear atmosphere of Argentina. "Viva Roosevelt! Viva la paz!"

AND THE

STEEL

This is yet the Age of Steel. Steel constitutes the most essential industry of modern civilization. Without Steel we would have no prosperity whatsoever. All work would come to a standstill and it is an industry which has been developed in the last seventy-five years.

The Asiatics may have known processes, now forgotten, by which they made the Damascus blade so immune to oxidation; the Italians may have known how to make coats of mail so finely woven that they could be worn with almost as little discomfort as an undershirt; and the English may have made a deadly battle axe, but steel buildings, steel bridges, steel ships and steel motorcars strictly belong to the Age of Steel.

The art of the Damascus has lost and the skill of the worker in Milan was like the skill of the Goldsmith—for the use of the rich only, but the making of steel is a modern development.

And how has the steel industry acquired itself? It opened the door to the employment of millions of men at good wages. In one of the most strenuous occupations, it has introduced machinery to take the place of back-breaking labor. It has speeded production of products and at the same time added constantly to the payrolls, added in constantly increasing number of men employed and in ever increasing pay per man.

In the darkest period of the "depression" the steel industry paid directly to the men $1,500,000,000 and almost as much more in indirect payroll's while going into the red $285,000,000.

This is not a bad record for those men who directed the industry and are sometimes called "economic royalists" and "princes of privilege."

They are "royal" and they are "princes."

Prophecy In News
Subject Of Series

The First Baptist church will introduce an innovation into the program of its evening service Sunday night, when the organ recital by Professor Edmundson, an opening hymn and the invocation, the pastor will present a ten-minute address on prophecy in the news. This will be a regular feature of this service hereafter. The subject for Sunday night will be "Fascism, Communism, or the Iron and the Clay." The sermon which will follow later will deal with the Song of Solomon.

figurehead. If the cabinet resigns the King might win it, with the help of the radio; Baldwin could hardly keep him "off the air."

There is hypocrisy in England, but if the King should say to the people, "I have given by word, do you wish me to break it?" The answer would be NO.

YOU'VE HEARD, perhaps, that the value of American home-made securities has risen within a year by $15,000,000,000. That value went up in England, because a pleasant young man plans to marry a thoroughly estimable young woman. British stocks fell down. Men are little; little things influence them more than big things.

IN THIS PROUD DEMOCRATIC republic, Mrs. "Wally" Simpson, has driven the President of the United States away from many front pages, but you will want to know that he is on his home from Buenos Aires, after stopping to congratulate the President of Uruguay on "great advances in behalf of the well-being of your citizens."

In his brief address the President said: "The first battlefield of peace is that of securing well-being at home."

Even Maine and Vermont will agree to that; the question is: How can it be done?

NEWTON D. BAKER, Woodrow Wilson's secretary of war, who celebrated his sixty-fifth birthday yesterday, says war will start, in a big way "as soon as statesmen make up their minds either that they want to fight or that they can't help fighting."

Some "statesmen" makes a foolish mistake and some equally foolish nation begins shooting. One small, unimportant murder was enough to start the big war.

The spectacle of Madrid under bombardment should hold back the world war that threatens, but human beings learn slowly.

THERE ARE QUEER THINGS about American mercantile shipping. The government supplies money to build the ships, at low interest with long loans. Then union labor will not let the ships run.

Government says that if you go from one American port to another on a ship not under the American flag you will be fined $200. An Italian young American woman, Mrs. Cronwell, who was Doris Duke, and had a rich father, was compelled to go to Honolulu last week, to see about her new house and swimming pool there. Only a Japanese boat could take her, and she was fined $200.

THIS GOVERNMENT SHOULD find some way to keep American merchant ships running, after lending money to build them, even if it has to run the ships itself.

The French government owns railroads, and in one strike it called the strikers, all in the military service, to the colors, ordering them to go to work. To refuse would have meant mutiny and shooting, they go to work.

Italian Views Spanish Battle

Asserts That Anarchism Is Predominant Political Faith In Spain Today

WOULD ABOLISH ALL GOVERNMENT

Central Press Washington Bureau 602 Times-Herald Bldg. By CHARLES P. STEWART Central Press Columnist.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Count Carlo Sforza, former minister of Italian foreign affairs, recently published in the United States an article which seems to me to be the first really understanding diagnosis of Spain's internal war yet given to the outside world.

For several years, rather more than a couple of decades ago, I was European general manager for a big American news-gathering agency. My headquarters was in London but the Iberian peninsula was a hot spot even then and I made repeated business trips to cities like Madrid, Barcelona and Lisbon, the Portuguese capital, studying the situation.

For example, I was in Barcelona when Francisco Ferrer was shot, a leader of an anarchists' abortive revolt against the then King Alfonso's regime; in Lisbon when an anarchistic movement overthrew King Manoel. The anarchists did not profit long from the Portuguese revolution, but they started it.

ANARCHISM PREDOMINATES
What I mean to say is that anarchism is the predominant politico-economic faith in Spain, not to mention Portugal.
Count Sforza asserts that it is yet, I believe him.
Popular conservative parlance classifies anarchism, socialism, communism and syndicalism as all pretty much one and the same thing. They are nothing of the kind.
The anarchists want no government at all. The Socialists want a maximum of it. When communism gained the upper hand in Russia numerous anarchists and Socialists, long exiled in other lands, hurried thither and were perfectly disgusted. Emma Goldman, anarchy's high priestess in America for half a generation, referred to the new system as "nothing but state capitalism," which was anathema to her. Socialists said it wasn't socialism. Syndicalists want ownership by the actual workers of all the tools of production; that's their "ism," right or wrong.

INTENSE INDIVIDUALISTS
But Spain? Spain was and undoubtedly still is basically anarchistic.
Count Sforza mentions the Spaniards' "intense individualism." His account is that the Fascist campaign under General Franco is as anarchistic as the loyalists' resistance to the establishment of a dictatorship or a restoration of the monarchy.
This is not so inconsistent a statement as it may seem.
General Franco is fighting for "rugged individualism"—the strong individual's right to grab and hang onto all he can get. The loyalists are fighting for the right to "bump" an overly rugged individualist "off" when he becomes too strong.

MANY ELEMENTS
Spain's loyalist government commonly is referred to as communistic. No! comments Count Sforza. Under attack by the aristocratic rugged individualists the other groups the anarchistic mass, with such Socialists, such Communists and such syndicalists as there may be—are welded together temporarily. But it is only a temporary alliance. Let the alliance win, and it will split up internally in all probability, and fall to fighting anew.
There is a miscellany of folk also to be considered, the count reminds us—Spain's smallest, business men. They have been terribly oppressed by the individualists in the top brackets and have no inclination to be similarly oppressed again. On the opposite hand, they have no inclination to be similarly wiped out by the individualists in the lower brackets.

A COMMENT BY STEWART
The jumble is a plenty more thorough and a heap sight more violent than the mixup between parties in the United States.
For myself, I like the anarchists best.
An anarchist, in the old days, always was represented as a chap with wire whiskers and a smoking bomb in his hand. I've known a lot of them—impractical birds, but personally very lovable.

THE PARENT PROBLEM

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

ADVICE HELPFUL
Sometimes as I sit at my desk and pound off this column day after day, and answer personally hundreds who write me about all sorts of human problems, I sometimes wonder whether my efforts amount to much. And then my spirit rises when I read my next mail, perhaps, and find that one of several parents or youths have taken the trouble to tell me that some advice I had given several months or several years ago had worked.
Some persons, of course, who so write, ask for advice on other matters. But an increasing number of letters are coming to me just to tell me that my advice had been followed to the letter and that it worked. Within a month, half a dozen letters tell me of young children recovered from stuttering "after I followed your advice." Others relate to victory over bed wetting, thumb sucking, tantrums, sleeping problems, and the like. It seems to me that any one who takes the trouble to write me such information must be a grateful and magnanimous soul. She little realizes how she helps me to keep heart and strive harder. Like everybody else, I get a little low myself sometimes.
To be sure, some problems just disappear when nobody knows why. Some parents have so written me; also some of my students have reported how certain problems disappeared, though they are not aware that they had really done anything. In many of such instances the parent has done something toward correction without knowing that he has. It may happen this way. As the parent problem grows objective and more sympathetic with the child, tensions relax, new bonds of affection arise, and new interests develop. I do believe we parents cannot talk over and think over our problems as parents, if we are able to be objective, without causing something good to happen in our family atmosphere. On the other hand, an occasional family seems to be worse off as a result of the rearing and study of child rearing and family relationships by one of that family. But such evil results, I think, only when the one studying these problems loses perspective and grows panicky emotionally.
After all, nobody can solve your problems for you; you must solve them for yourself. All we can do is to help you analyze these problems and suggest possible means of their solution. I can think of no bigger challenge to us as parents than that of going at all our problems in the family in a reasonable fashion. At best, our emotions may get the better of us; but if we can be their master part of the time, we have some achievement to be proud of.

On Court House Hill

Registration Clerk, Thomas Edmunds, announces that no more new registrations of voters can be taken until January 4. In the meantime, however, voters can change their party affiliations at any time. Edmunds is now engaged in compiling duplicate office records.
In the divorce case of John Porada against Wanda Porada the court has handed down a decree effective provided that certain provisions are carried out. Mrs. Porada is at present in an institution where she is being treated for mental trouble. In the order made Porada must pay $30 per month during the life of his wife, or until such a time as she is cured, and must give bond in the sum of $500 for the faithful performance of this obligation.

Shooting a deer isn't such hard work, the work comes in when you start to take the buck to your automobile, according to Sheriff Edward D. Pritchard. When the sheriff shot a buck in Forest county this week he was eight miles from his car and the snow was around fourteen inches deep. The buck weighed about 150 pounds. A rope was tied around its legs and the Sheriff, his son Edward, and John James dragged it the eight miles. The sheriff says that he was pretty well "fagged" out and expected to feel a little stiff the next morning, but he was disappointed.
On the way the party met a lone hunter who had also shot a buck. He had lost his way and was dragging the buck around in a circle.

Among the cases listed by Prothonotary John A. Edgar at court next week are the following: Elmer M. Born against Charles A. Berg, motion of defendant for a new trial in an automobile damage case. John A. Born against Charles A. Berg, same as above. T. Howard Kelley, executor of the late Charles Kelley against the Metropolitan Life Insurance company. Motion for a new trial and judgment notwithstanding the verdict, which was in favor of the plaintiff. Roy L. Hanel against Robert Long, motion of defendant for a new trial. A. B. Black, now for use of J. W. Hartwell against C. P. Simpson and James Gilliland. Rule to open judgment. Antonio Servodio against James Talaganis, motion of defendant for a new trial.
William Mitchell has filed an application at the prothonotary's office for a divorce from his wife, Olive White Mitchell, on the grounds of desertion. The couple was married in 1921 in Durham, N. C. where they lived for some time. Later they moved to West Virginia and in 1923 came to New Castle. Mitchell still lives here but his wife is supposed to be in their native city Durham, N. C.

DEAN IS STILL WITH CARDINALS

By LAWTON CAVER
International News Service
Sports Writer

MONTREAL, Dec. 5.—With Dizzy Dean's fate still to be decided or announced, the baseball scene began to shift toward New York today as those who attended the minor league convention here converged on the major league meetings opening next week.

If Dizzy was traded or sold in what would have been the big news of this season, the St. Louis Cardinals were successful in making a secret of it, although that report persists.

While they didn't get around to the Cardinals' pitching star during this convention they did do some other juggling of major leaguers, with the big deals of the entire week confined to the last day.

Grimes Swings Deals
In two of them, the Brooklyn Dodgers generally were credited with helping themselves to do something better than a seventh place finish next season. That was their plight in 1936.

Burleigh Grimes, the new manager, carried out his threat to make some changes by first sending outfielder Frenchy Bordagary, infielder Jimmy Jordan and pitcher Dutch Leonard, to the St. Louis Cardinals.

Of more importance were those transactions which he made yesterday. He didn't get any stars in his in-fielder Woody English and pitcher Roy Henshaw of the Chicago Cubs in exchange for shortstop Lonnie Frey, but he got rid of a player, who, no matter how great he may be eventually, was a flop last season.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Dec. 5.—"Little" Duquesne University's football squad surprised the sports world several times this year starting upsets, but already the Dukes are talking about next year's prospect.

"We'll really 'wow 'em then," seems to be the current impression. And with one notable exception—that of the loss of Captain Mike Basrak—there's no reason why they shouldn't.

Graduation hit its hardest blow taking Basrak, the best center the Dukes ever had and a possible All-American. Ernest Hefferle will be missing from the end post and Joe Laputka's place at guard will be filled by someone else.

Loss Three Backs

In the backfield three good men, Beto Vairo, Bill Dillon and Lou Terone, join the alumni but the half-back combination of Boyd Brumback and George Matsik that clicked so smoothly in the Marquette and Pitt upsets will still be there.

Frankie Zoppetti will again hold down the signal-calling job while big Johnny Karrs serves another year in the full-back berth.

Robert Goodman, second string tackle, Chief Airhart and Paul Urik substitute ends, are the only other leaders that "Little Clipper" Smith will lose via the diploma route.

A wealth of veteran material will be on hand to replace the damages. Sullivan, Sussano, a junior and Thaddeus Grabinys, a sophomore, will be back next year to fight it out of Basrak's pivot spot. And in the words of Coach Smith "both are good prospects."

Strong Line

As for the rest of the forward wall, just look at 1937 set-up over Art Amann, Steve Barko, Jim Horn, Jim Paziola, Regis Lhoest, guards: Marshall Manuel, Joe Maras, Bill Critchfield, John Minnich, Alex Tannas tackle; Lawrence Kirsling, George Plutkus, Ray Serangeli, ends—all veterans.

And there is no dearth of material for backfield spots with Ken Bechtloff, Jim Cassillo, Mike Barron, Samuel Magone, Vince McKeeta, Gene Oeder, Brumbaugh and Matsik—all veterans except Magone—in there scrapping for a first string assignment.

The 1937 schedule as yet uncompleted, will be practically the same as this year's.

"We played a tough schedule this year," said "Clipper." "And it'll be just as tough next year. Except that everybody will be gunning for us."

The Dukes went up by smashing a Rose-Bowl dreaming Pitt team, suffered a slump and let West Virginia Wesleyan and Detroit University trot over them, then wound up by beating Carnegie Tech and triumphing over undefeated Marquette.

Ohio League Match By Forfeit Route Friday

New Castle Rifle club won by forfeit from the Farrell Rifle club last night at the Cathedral range in a scheduled Penn-Ohio league match. The New Castle men shot their strings anyhow to maintain their averages in the league and recorded a brilliant 948 count.

High man for the shoot last night was Hunter with 193, with Houck second with 191 and Waddington third with 190.

Other results were: B. Miller 185, Watson 170, Hockenberry 187, Patterson 173, Giddings 187, Van Horn 186, Cramer 186, McKeown 184, Crawford 175, McCready 122, McBride 175.

Dick Pugh of the New Castle club has high average for the Penn-Ohio League to date, with Bill Houck the second high average man.

Temple-St. Marys To Battle Today

(International News Service)
SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 5.—Ending one of football's most celebrated feuds, Glenn S. ("Pop") Warner and Edward P. ("Slip") Madigan will meet today as rival coaches for the first time in nine years when the Temple Owls and St. Mary's Galloping Gaels clash in an inter-sectional contest here.

The last time the noted coaches met was when Madigan's Gaels beat Warner's Stanford university eleven in a notoriously rough battle in 1927 that saw several players carried from the field.

After that game, Warner vowed he would never play another team coached by Madison, but since leaving Stanford for Temple, the "Old Fox" has changed his mind.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Hail Hale Jones, king of all the trapshooting world for 1936. Twenty-nine years old, a native of Alton, Ill., Hale C. Jones, a six-foot, 190-pound husky who's built like a Minnesota fullback, did not win any one particular tournament to gain this royal trapshooting distinction, but over a period of a year, his average on registered targets is higher than that of any other clay-target "buster" in America.

Shooting at 2550 targets registered with the Amateur Trapshooting Association at Dayton, O., Hale Jones cracked 2519 from the 16-yard mark for an average of .9878. Thus for the eleventh straight year, it required an average of 98 per cent or better to gain high average honors. A year ago, it was Walter Beaver, former Grand American Handicap Champion from Berwyn, Pa., who won with an average of .9868 on 5100 registered targets.

Apparently the football players of the Albuquerque, N. M. team know their stuff. The coach and his grid-ers were stranded when their truck broke down. The coach went for aid. When he returned the coach discovered his footballers had outran 28 rabbits which were roasting on a fire.

Horton Smith, ambling golfer from the Ozarks, made golf difficult for 200 colleagues on the Miami-Biltmore course. Coral Gables yesterday when they tried to take his title for the course and the $2,500 that goes with it. He put together a 31 and 37 for a 68, three beneath par in the first 18 holes of the route.

Harmony seemed to be the keynote of the A. U. A. annual convention session at New York yesterday. The factional forces concentrated on a harmonious adjustment of differences which at one time threatened to split the organization. The only rivalry is for the presidency between Jeremiah Mahoney and Major Patrick Walsh.

Several hundred high school wrestlers will gather at State college next Saturday for State's first annual wrestling clinic under the direction of Charles Speidel and sponsored by the school of physical education and athletics. Wrestling was inaugurated at New Castle high recently, about 125 turning out for the catch-as-catch-can sport.

John Uram Is On Salem Squad

Former New Castle High Basketball Star Looks Promising

A former New Castle basketball player whose agility and cleverness on the court made him a favorite during his high school career, may be seen on the Salem varsity quintet this season.

John Uram, who was a standout on the Salem College grid eleven during the past season, has reportedly returned for basketball and looks promising. Uram is a junior.

The Salem College Tigers fortified with nine lettermen from last season, are expected to be tough. Six men, freshmen from last season, have a year of collegiate experience in their favor.

Three National Football League Records Broken

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Three National Football League player records have been shattered and five of last year's totals bettered already this season, according to individual statistics released by the league here.

The league standards were broken in yards gained on passes thrown by Arnold Herber, Green Bay Packers, and St. Regis college, and caught by Don Hutson, Packers and Alabama. Hutson also broke the pass receiving record.

Herber's completed passes have been good for 1,013 yards, bettering the mark of 963 set by Harry Newman with the Giants in 1935. Hutson gained 439 yards while catching 28 passes, bettering both league standards of 432 yards and 28 caught by Tod Goodwin of the Giants, in 1935.

Five Surpassed
The five 1935 totals surpassed were scoring, ground gaining, total and individual field goals, and number of passes completed.

Jack Manders, Chicago Bears and Minnesota, has tallied 61 points to lead the field and better last year's total by six. He needs 18 points in two remaining games to break his league record of 79 made two seasons ago. Dutch Clark, Detroit, is second in scoring with 49 points, which is also six points better than second place total of last year. Don Hutson is third with 42.

There has been a total of 43 field goals kicked this season by 16 players, one better than the 1935 total. Manders and Armand Niccolai, Pittsburgh Pirates and Duquesne, have both passed last year's individual total by one each. Each are tied at present with seven.

Ground-Gainers
Four men have already bettered last year's ground-gaining total of 499 yards. Thilly Leemans, Giants and George Washington U., is leading the circuit with 752; Ace Gutowsky, Detroit, is second with 617, and Cliff Battles, Boston, and Bronko Nagurski, Bears, are third and fourth with 537 and 526. Clarke Hinkle, Packers, jumped from seventh to fifth with 452.

Although Ed Matesic, Pittsburgh, and Ed Danowski, Giants, are first and second in passing efficiency, Herber's 64 completions surpassed the 1935 total of 57 completed by Danowski. Matesic's 62 completions is also better than last year's total.

Pitt Planning Trip To Coast

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Dec. 5.—University of Pittsburgh officials today swung into plan-making conferences to arrange the itinerary for the Rose Bowl.

Tentative date selected for departure is December 16, which would have the Pitt boys in the California climate for almost a fortnight before the game.

Plans will be worked out today and tomorrow, with officials hoping to have arrangements completed by Monday.

Coach "Jack" Sutherland announced practice for the annual east-west tilt would begin Monday but added it "would be brief and easy." It was believed the squad will be in uniform all next week, visit their homes over the week-end, then entrain on the 16th.

Saks To Oppose Alumni Quintet
Tonight on the senior high floor, Saks basketball team will open the floor season, opposing the Alumni five.

Gabby DeCaprio and Nick Cagnetta will be at forward, Yanks Alfieri at center, Louis Santangelo and Joe Fava at the guard posts. A fast game is anticipated.

Notre Dame And Southern Cal In Annual Contest

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 5.—With the curtain falling upon the 1936 football season, Southern California and Notre Dame were to clash at the Coliseum today before a crowd expected to approach the 60,000 mark.

It marked the end of the trail for both teams this year, the trail being broken by detours of defeats as well as smooth victory highways. The Irish, now chugging along in great fashion, ruled 2-to-1 favorites over Troy, whose engine started sputtering in the last few games, but many close observers of the gridiron sport expected Southern California to "hit along on all six" today and stem the Ramblers' invasion.

Bears To Play Youngstown Team

Wabash Bears, conquerors of many of the outstanding independent elevens in the district, travel to Youngstown Sunday afternoon to oppose the Youngstown Sherer team, at Evans field. The game will start at 3 o'clock.

Sammy Coppel and Paul Elder, former Slippery Rock ace, will be in the Bears' lineup. All players are asked to report at Mahoning school Sunday at noon for the trip to Youngstown. The Seventh Warders claim the Lawrence county independent title. The Bears are in favor of playing the Colaluca on December 13.

Volunteer Firemen Hurt Returning From Ellwood To Receive Compensation

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Dec. 5.—In a decision of far reaching importance to the thousands of volunteer firemen in the commonwealth, referee David B. Roberts of the workmen's compensation board today had upheld the right of volunteer fire fighters to receive compensation for injuries suffered indirectly in line of duty.

He granted compensation of $81.43 to Sam Keller, 34 of Springdale and $108.75 to Charles Teasted, 27, of Brackenridge, members of the pioneer hose company of Brackenridge for injuries suffered when the borough's hose truck struck an embankment and overturned while returning from a convention at Ellwood City last July 26. Three others on the truck were killed.

The borough was directed to pay hospital and doctor bills by Roberts, who said the ruling may be appealed to the superior court for a final verdict. The payments represented wage losses to the men in their regular employment.

Attorney Bernard Sandomire, representing the state workmen's insurance fund, argued the men should not be paid because they were not actually in line of duty. But counsel for the claimants introduced a resolution showing they had been authorized to attend the convention by the borough council.

The ruling may also affect Mrs. Catherine R. Engleman, of Brackenridge, whose husband was killed and who seeks compensation of $10 a month.

A pleasant evening was spent, with vocal and instrumental music furnishing the diversions.

What Noted People Say

(International News Service)

NEW YORK—James O. McKinsey, chairman of Marshall Field and Co., urges business men to face realities: "Recent political and social trends may bring wide indirect benefits and result in a more intelligent citizenship and a more intelligent business operation than ever before existed in America."

HOLLYWOOD—Mary Astor, film actress, says she determined years ago to be a featured player rather than a star. "The audience doesn't get fed up with you the way they do with the stars, whose period of success is limited."

NEW YORK—Mme. Elsa Schiaparelli, Parisian couturiere, give advice to women: "It is possible to have too many clothes. The fewer the better so long as they are of good quality. If a woman has too many clothes she gets in a muddle."

Here's a game for you to try next time you're in New York. Ask any metropolitan taxi driver who his favorite band leader is and odds are that he'll name you either Paul Whiteman or Abe Lyman.

It's a craft, says a taxi driver, before Whiteman or Lyman dreamed of four figure salaries and big-time jazz each wrestled with a steering wheel through traffic ahead of a ticking meter.

Whiteman, by the way, is astoundingly jittery in a taxi. He'll walk for miles rather than hail one when alone. In a party he sits back and watches every red light and narrow squeak, showing on imaginary brakes in rhythm with the driver.

I was boarding a subway at Fourteenth street the other noon. As I made ready to enter, just before the door slid shut, I found myself face to face with a hundred pound lady laden with bundles on the way out.

She glared at me wittily. "Try me!" she cried charging through the lane between the entrance bars. "You can't win. I do this day."

So I gave ground and waited for the next train.
